IMPORTANT SPECIAL SALES FOR THE OPENING WEEK OF SUMMER

SAGELY SUGGESTIVE OF STIRRING SUMMER SELLING AND SEASONABLE SAVINGS

CONSEQUENTIAL events succeed each other rapidly at "The Boston" those stirring summer days. There must be no periods of dullness here. Straight to the point is the High School motto of 1903. "To rest is to rust." The store that is "Wichita's Shopping Center" tolerates no inactivity. It is too large—too vital a factor in your daily commercial life to warrant trade lethargy.

And so every section of this vast store is a bustle with genuinely good news for shoppers who view economy with a friendly eye and who seek to double the power of their dollars. In the different sections of this store many important sales are now in progress, each demanding and quickly obtaining an unusual degree of patronage. It is a season when extra good values are ripe. News full of interest for the week follows—

Curing sore and granulated eyes without pain is quite an art. Prof. Samuel does this, and he does it quick. Patients who come to him to be treated for the above troubles don't need to come to his office to be treated. The patients treat themselves at home. His treatment is painless and they are cured in a very short time. None of his patients have to wear pillow cases or bandages. Those that walk the streets with pillow cases around their eyes do not belong to him. Those who wish to be cured quick and avoid bandages can call on him at 128 North Main street.

City Regulator

Makes Suggestions as to How to Build a Wichita.

To the Editor of the Eagle:
Let me suggest to the fellows who are growling about the rain, about it being too wet, to hold your peace, for the experience of the last thirty years in this valley is that the wetter the season the better the general results in crops. It may cut some things short, but more than makes up in general results.

We have no room in our jail for rapists; in fact, jail doors ought to be barred against such fiendish brutes. There should be one universal law in all the states like the law of Arkansas, making the penalty for the offense, capital punishment, and strictly enforce it. Then there would be less of it and less mob law.

I would establish a mounted patrol during the flowering season for the protection of flowers. People who go to the expense of growing flowers should be allowed to enjoy them unmolested. We cannot afford and our people will not go to the trouble and expense of beautifying their grounds if they are to be robbed constantly. Colored boys have been going about the town this week with great bunches of roses for sale, which were plucked in a bungling shape and given at whatever price offered—a dozen or more roses for a penny. If it cannot be stopped by police regulation, I would advise that a watch be placed on your premises by the hired man, armed with a good rawhide, catch the thieves and give them a good blistering.

an Equestrian club, consisting of laddies and lassies. It is decidedly more preferable than bicycle, euchre or dancing clubs.

It will take a number of months to vote bonds, get ready and build an auditorium. There is no possible chance to build in time for the fall festivities should the city decide to have them. It might be done in time to hold a Christmas or holiday festival—all hands on deck and work with a determination and a will until the southeastern road, the interurban road and the auditorium are built. Strike while the iron is hot. No knocking, unless it is to knock out the knockers. Some people predict hard times some day, and if we will close up these deals before they come, then we will be ready to stand the storm. If we wait some of us will never see them. The outlook for the roads are encouraging, but there should be no lagging.

Did you ever see an interurban railroad car? They are about twice the length of one of our largest street cars and stand up high on the trucks, like a railroad passenger coach. Go to Detroit, Michigan, Dayton, Ohio, Indianapolis, Indiana, and you will see them running in every direction. It is the greatest civilizer and trade builder yet established. It is the last and highest point reached in the evolution of civilization. First the trail horseback, meal sack or bag thrown over the horses' back, to convey the grain to mill and town, purchase for the home; then the clearing for a wagon road by cutting down trees, avoiding the stumps as much as possible; then the graded dirt road combined with the country road, then the great national pike, pronounced by the greatest statesmen of that time as the same as they rolled over this road to a Congregational church—then the railroad, with its wooden rails, with strap-iron nailed on top; then the iron rail, with its ponderous girders, Pullman palace cars, whirling across the continent, stopping at intervals; and now the interurban, stopping at every farm house, or under a shade tree for the waiting passenger. It brings the farmers together more closely or to town any hour in the day, to go and come at their leisure. The interurban and the rural delivery mail system go hand in hand as civilization, give us both and more of them.

I would call up the gentlemen who conducted the affairs of the Kansas Mutual Life Insurance company, its officers and directors, make them disgorge their borrowed money, overdraw salaries for themselves, sons and sons-in-law and if they make good by returning that which does not belong to them, and they would promise not to appear in public again, would relieve them from working in the twine factory at Lansing.

A railroad man said to me this week: "Do you think for a minute that Wichita will build a southeast road into the coal field?" I told him Wichita would be a damn if it did not build a road when it could reach coal beds in the distance of one hundred miles. I talked with a gentleman this week who resides at Tulsa, who said that within less than one hundred miles coal could be mined by plowing up the top ground, scraping it off with a scraper from a foot to sixteen inches, and one could drive the wagon onto the coal, pick it up and haul it—very much superior coal. In the cause—and by getting down one hundred to one hundred and fifty feet, a fine grade of anthracite coal was to be had.

Maybe the annexation of the Philippines with its tropical rains and sun, has brought about the present dampness. The proposition that all signs fall in dry weather, seems to be applicable in wet weather also. For almost every day, we have had a patch of the sky as big as the Dutchman's breeches, also a rainbow in the evening and clear sunsets and cool weather, almost to say cold nights.

annoyed with one? The parties referred to is the fellow who, in answering a call, will snap out "Hell-o" or "Well," with a tone and accent that makes one drop the receiver. If it is an annoyance, get someone to answer for you and save your reputation for being a congenial and pleasant gentleman or confirm the idea that you are a bear.

With the rapid changes in the weather, one sees funny combinations in clothing. I saw in the street car yesterday morning a gentleman with a flannel suit without vest, hat to match; a man with a winter suit and overcoat, another gentleman with an overcoat and straw hat, a lady in a white summer silk waist. The conversation among the passengers was general and on the weather.

I would admonish you to be kind to your preacher for his bed is not made up of American beauties and he will be called in some day when you don't know it to preach your funeral.

This state has a state organization as something in the name of orphans with salaries men. What the people of this part of the state would like to know is what is the salary of this graft? Where does the fund come from to pay it? What becomes of the money collected in the name of the orphans? Where and to whom does these authorities report their collections? Did they ever make a report or statement of the amount of money they get from week to week? There are some things the public would like to know as an evidence of good faith, and to be able to form some kind of an idea of the value of this graft.

Please look up the new law regarding the growing of weeds on your premises and vacant lots house hill 90, section 15. If you don't want the city to keep your property clean from weeds and tax it up to the property look after it yourself.
